INTRODUCTION

Part II:

The part II of the bilingual dictionary is a continuation of the first part (volume 1 vowels). This volume contains consonants from k to m beginning words.

The procedure adopted in the preparation of this bilingual dictionary is explained in the introduction of volume 1. The difficulties encountered and the abbreviations used in the preparation of this dictionary is also dealt in volume 1.

A Malayalam-Telugu bilingual dictionary is a great need for the native ~~and~~ speakers of Malayalam who learn Telugu. A dictionary of this type is ~~of~~ must when we foster the learning of related languages within the shortest period as possible.

The present bilingual dictionary is a part of the teaching materials prepared <sup>in</sup> the N.C.E.R.T. Project, for further expansion and testing of Cognate Method of teaching Language, under the department of Linguistics, University of Kerala. The Cognate Method of Teaching Languages is based on the assumption that the languages which are genetically related can be taught more easily since they share common features not only in vocabulary, but also in structure sentence patterns etc.

The materials was collected mainly from the news paper languages. The intergtated Malayalam index for this bilingual dictionary was prepared from the two Malayalam dailies namely kerala Kaumudi published from Trivandrum the southern part of Kerala, and Mathru bhumi- Published from Calicut the northern part of Kerala. 3 issues of Kerala Kaumudi dated 17-22-27 -6-73 and 2 issues of Matru bhumi dated 17/22/-6-73, had been indexed, were utilized for this purpose.

It principally aims at serving as an aid to the student and the general reader. This dictionary does the work of 3 dictionaries namely

1. a Malayalam - English dictionary
2. a Malayalam - Telugu dictionary
3. a Telugu - English dictionary

It includes most of ordinary and more important grammatical categories.

A ~~mini~~ Dictionaries are much help in learning the particular language or languages for which it is prepared.

A notable feature of this dictionary is that it is in phonemic script, or it is a transliteration of the Malayalam words. Hence it can be useful not only by Malayalies, but also by those who can read and understand the phonemic script.

Content of this dictionary

1. This dictionary contains all the words, locutions, idioms available in the five Malayalam news papers mentioned above.
2. This contains all the inflectional, derivational, syntactic and semantic information on the data.
3. It includes personal names Place names, and house names found in the Malayalam Papers indexed.
4. It provides for each word or expression in the source language and their right translation in the target language.
5. It helps the user to pronounce the words like a words like a native speaker.

The present bilingual dictionary is devided in to 3 parts.

Ist part includes the introduction abbreviations used, and the vowels 'a' to 'au'.

The 2nd part contains the transliterations consonants 'k' to 'm' and a bibliography of the books referred for the preparation of dictionary. The last part (volume 3) is a continuation of part II. Consonants 'y' to 'h'.

Conclusion:-

This bilingual dictionary, based on the news paper language will be much helpful for teaching Telugu, to the native speakers of Malayalam, with in a shorter time.

What Belongs in a Bilingual Dictionary

The ideal bilingual dictionary would anticipate every conceivable need of the prospective user.

1. It would provide for each word or expression in the source language and the right translation in the target language.
2. It would contain all the words, locutions idioms that any user might ever want to look up.
3. It would contain all the inflectional, derivational, syntactic semantic information that any user might ever needed.
4. It would contain information information on all levels of usage.
5. It would contain all personal names, place names, and other names that any user might want to look up.
6. It would contain all the specialized vocabulary items of all the science and also all fields.
7. It would contain all necessary information about the correct spelling as well as information on alternate or commonly encountered in correct spelling.
8. It would include all the information needed to instruct the user in the proper way to pronounce each word so as to be indelectable from the pronunciation of a native speaker.
9. It ought to be equally oriented to speakers of both languages.

10. It ought to be as well adapted to purpose of machine translation.
11. above all it should be compact.
12. It would include illustrations to picture items unfamiliar to speakers of the target language.

A good dictionary, either monilingual or bilingual - is one in which one can find the information one is looking for, preferably in the very first place one looks.

Purpose of Bilingual Dictionary

The primary purpose of a bilingual dictionary is to help the user in his task of translating from one language to another

2. bilingual dictionary usually gives a certain amount of information about affixation, inflection and classification.
3. It may include historical information such as the etymology of entry of words, words marked obsolete etc, dialectal informations as words marked local or regional or otherwise restricted in currency, and stylistic information as distinctions in levels of usage.
4. It should be a reference for the students (of either languages)
5. The bilingual dictionary should be a ready guide for a linguist who is not a specialist. Since a bilingual dictionary can be useful and desirable to several kinds of people, such as students, translators, travelers and linguists.

It is a fact that no existing bilingual dictionary contains all those features.

Reference is made for<sup>om</sup> the book
'problems in lexicography'.

An Explanatory note on the content of the bilingual Dictionary

This explanatory note will help the user to understand and use the dictionary easily.

A page contains 3 columns. The first column contains the Malayalam word, the number indicating the index number from which the word is selected. (In order to show that a particular item was taken from a particular index we assigned separate numbers for the five indexes and give the number with in the five indexes in brackets against each item in the integrated index. This will help to know from which news paper and from which issue of the paper the particular item was taken). Below the item the grammatical category is given in abbreviate forms. The second column includes the Telugu e-uivalent of the Malayalam word, and its grammatical category. The number in the bracket indicating the index number.

The last colum gives the meaning of these words in English.

The abbreviations used in the dictionary are give separatgely inthe first volume.

The place nemes, Personal names, House names etc used in the Malayalam News papers are retained in the index. They are given the abbreviated forms as personal names (Per.N) Place names (PN) and House names

(HN) respectively. Certain universal names (Place names and Personal names) like Delhi, Madras, Indira Gandhi etc. are written as such and the difference in pronunciation is also indicated.

Eg. delhi:            1. ḍelhi
                         2. ḍelli
                         3. delhi        etc.

The English loans available both in Malayalam and Telugu News papers are written as such. These loans have been assigned grammatical categories like Noun (N) verb(Vb) adjective (adj) etc. on the basis of their usage in Malayalam. Certain forms like /oop /'of' aanḍ (and), are treated as in English as prepositions and conjunctions.

Technical terms are not segmented (names of industries, films etc.) they are written as such in Telugu also.

The peculiar usage of Malayalam idioms are not translated into Telugu.

Regarding the grammatical categories, in the abbreviated form *indicates the first member of a case compound.

Eg. bhaarata (*N)

/bhaarata deeṣam /    Nc

The attu-forms in nouns are treated as case bases in Malayalam. But in Telugu their grammatical categories are written according to the contextual meaning.

eg. deeṣattu (M1)            deeṣamlōo        (Tc) for the-am ending and -a- ending Malayalam nouns, the same meaning and Telugu equivalents are given.

CB

Eg.

A special fact to be noted that in Malayalam the verbal participle and finite verb have /i/ ending forms. In Telugu the meaning of the finite verb and the corresponding finite Verb, forms is only supplied. The verbal participle for other forms are supplied separately.

A general classification of nouns as Human (H) Non human (Nh) and pronoun (pro.N) is followed. The Human Noun is further classified as Masculine (M), Feminine (F) and also as singular (sg) plural (pl) Epicene Plural (Epi.Pl) and honorific plural (Hon:Pl)

Noun Phrases are marked Phr.N, and Verb Phrases as V.Phr. Numeral Noun compounds are written as Nu.Phr; and sentence Noun as (SN)

Since, in Telugu, except for plurals and some other forms, the Gentive case marker is covertly marked, to distinguish it from the noun from a dash(--) after the noun is given.

Eg. śaakha (M1) - śaakha (Tc) - branch

N.Nh.Sg.

N.Nh.Sg.

śaakhayute

śaakha- - of branch

GO

So also the conjunctive marker um is covertly marked in Telugu.

The negative form is supplied if the negative prefix and the positive form of the word is present in Telugu. That is if the negative prefix a- /akaaranamu-/ and positive form /niiti-/ 'justice' are available, then the negative equivalent of Malayalam word /aniiti/ 'injustice' is supplied in Telugu.

English loans, if present in any form in Telugu, the corresponding Malayalam version is supplied in Telugu.

Eg. kompaartment (M) Kampaaṛṭṁṇṭal (T)

Then the Malayalam equivalent (kampaartṁṇṭal) is supplied in Telugu also.

The Telugu items, are supplied with the help of English Telugu dictionary or by the help of native speaker.

Malayalamies who desire to learn Telugu will find this dictionary useful, though there are bound to be, Several short comings in such a work prepared in haste.
